

COOKIE POLICY

In force since 01.01.2025

What is a cookie?

A cookie is a small morsel of text that a website asks your browser to store. All cookies have expiration dates in them that determine how long they stay in your browser. Cookies can be removed in two ways: automatically, when they expire, or when you manually delete them. We've included more details below to help you understand what kinds of cookies we use.

Please remember that by deleting existing cookies or disabling future cookies you may not be able to access certain areas or features of our website.

What cookies does Bondora use?

We use cookies across our website to improve the performance and enhance the user experience. Please be advised that when you visit our website you agree that we use the following cookies:

- Essential cookies that are only set or retrieved by the website while you are visiting which allow us to identify you as a subscriber and ensure that you can access the subscription only pages. We can ensure that no one is making changes to your profile, applying for loans or making loans on your behalf.
- Functionality cookies are used to allow us to remember your preferences on the website, such as language or username to customize your user experience.
- Performance cookies allow us to collect information how you use the website. All of the information collected is anonymous and is only used to help us improve the way our website works and measure the effectiveness of our advertising campaigns.
- Third party cookies are behaviorally targeted advertising cookies (e.g. Google Analytics) that allow us to record pages that are visited and the links that are followed. The information collected is non-identified.
- Secure cookies are used to ensure that any data in the cookie will be encrypted as it passes between the website and the browser. It helps us to protect the security of your account.

How to change cookies settings?
